

Van Zyverden's
ALLIUM GLOBEMASTER

Allium are in the same family as garlic, onions, chives and shallots. This makes gardeners wonder if they should include them in their ornamental gardening plans, as it conjures up images of supermarket produce. But because good garden designs are often made up of different shapes, allium's rounded blooms make for high drama and interest in the garden. The Allium group gets more popular annually, from over 300 species to choose. They amaze everyone, and few plants create this kind of wow in the garden. We will be adding many new varieties shortly.

About This Variety: Globemaster is a bulbous perennial that is ornamentally grown for its spring bloom of spherical, deep lavender flower heads. Strap-shaped, gray-green, basal leaves form a clump of foliage in spring. As the leaves begin to wither in mid-spring, stout flowering stems rise topped with huge, globular, deep lavender to silver-purple flower heads packed with individual star-shaped florets which collectively display a metallic sheen. Flowers appear in an impressive, long-lasting, bloom in which new florets continue to develop as the original ones fade. Flower heads dry after bloom and remain ornamental in the garden. Flowers generally lack fragrance.

Growing Instructions: As Alliums do not like wet feet, find a sunny location where the soil drains well or try to improve the drainage. The bulbs will rot in wet areas. Aside from that, almost no maintenance is required.

Care Tip: Dig, divide, and replant bulbs after a few years of decreasing flower production.

Exposure: Full sun to partial shade

Height: Grows 36-40" tall

Spacing: Plant 12" apart, 4-6" deep

USDA Zones: Hardy in USDA zones 5-8
