FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

■ BUTTERCUP BLOW DRYER

1. How do I use my Drybar Buttercup Blow Dryer internationally?
Buttercup Blow Dryer operates at 120 volts. Outside of the U.S., it can be used with a step-down converter and the appropriate plug adapter. Recommended brands are Conair and Travel Smart. The same can be used for all Drybar tools.
2. How much does Buttercup weigh?
Buttercup is just 1 lb. 1 oz.!
3. Buttercup is only blowing cold air. How do I switch it back to hot air?
Click the “cool-shot” button located at the top of Buttercup’s handle indicated with a snowflake symbol. The “cool shot” button is a locking button that must be depressed or clicked to change its setting. That should do the trick, but if your Buttercup is still blowing cold, please consult your warranty card.
4. What are Nano Beads and how are they different from negative ions?
Nano Beads are tiny beads embedded within the heat coil of the Buttercup Blow Dryer. They are comprised of different compressed NanoIonic™ Minerals.
5. How do I know which concentrator nozzle to use with Buttercup?
*The two concentrator nozzles allow for more concentrated airflow:
The wider nozzle: Focuses on a greater area to help hair dry faster. Great for longer or thicker hair.
The narrow nozzle: Focuses on smaller areas for extra intensity and precision styling. Great for bangs or fringe.*

■ HALF PINT BRUSH

1. How long will the NanoIonic Mineral coating on Half Pint Brush last?

► HIGH TOPS ROLLERS

1. How do I use High Tops Rollers?

Use small sections of hair. Begin by pulling a 1" section from crown forward. Attach roller to ends. Roll firmly toward head. Use more rollers as needed. Blow dry for 5 seconds and allow to cool for 10-15 minutes. Rock and unroll!

2. Do I need pins or clips for High Tops Rollers?

Most hair types do not need clips or pins to secure High Tops Rollers. If you have thick and/or long hair, you can secure with pins.
